They say that the sun shines on the righteous. I'm not sure of the validity of that statement but if true, we can assume that Kam Eng and Lewie have unquestionable morals!

The beautiful weather enabled parking on the open space adjacent to the usual roadside site - fortuitous given that the Subang Jaya (Wankers) H3 had also chosen the Northwest corner of the Agriculture Park but fearful of the weather, elected to park along the main road.

A decent number of bucks and bunnies set off to the North, climbing the embankment and into the bush. The trail initially proceeded along the familiar track, but soon veered off to the left into uncharted territory and to the first check at about 1km. This was easily broken up to the right and forward and so onto the next check 700m later after loops to the right and then left. This proved slightly more difficult to break - mainly because of the very few hashers prepared to actually look for paper. Continuing North and looping to the West brought us to the third check - where many, on hearing the check called, chose to simply continue along the main trail and to the 110m climb which led to the fourth check at 4km in to the run. At this point, logic and good sense were abandoned by many, to be replaced by a panic-stricken herd mentality. The FROP's call of 'Check' was relayed back no less than 150m whereupon the 'herd' decided to proceed to the left and up the slippery track. They were to meet paper about 200m later, where the correct trail came in from below to the West. Although the FROPs had searched forward for quite a distance, they failed to notice the paper which was only slightly off to the left of the trail. They too, had been seduced by the chatter from the 'herd', who were now only 30m above and to the West of them!

From then on, we enjoyed a long descent (and one final check - I think?) home, via the plateau from which a beautiful vista was observed, with Bukit Jugra clearly visible 33k to the South. On returning to the run site, our GM had kindly laid out the remainder of the Christmas Cakes she had baked for us to enjoy and if that weren't enough, the Hare's wife - Soh Yoke Chun - delighted us all later with a plentiful supply Tuna Sashimi, freshly flown in from the Soh's project in Maldives.

On-On was at the 'New Generation' restaurant on Jln Setia Prima N U13/N where a healthy turnout of 4 tables were entreated to a heavily subsidised meal by the Hares. Visitors: (2 x potential new members from Holland); Silver Bullet and Cruela from Nairobi; Chris Leighton; Camille Laubel, Wolfgang Druba; and overseas member (and ex GM) Ima Druba; were welcomed and on-downed.

Ima was nominated by Wolfgang for 'Prick of the Week' after he discovered that she had taken one of the three specimens to Germany when they left. Wolfgang was obviously not happy at having to take second place to the inanimate object and had dutifully returned it to its rightful home. Sim then presented Wolfgang with one of the larger specimens for depriving Ima of her 'treasure'! It must be a first - a double 'Prick of the Week award'!

On-On!
